

Arafat tries to liberate U.S. captives

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Tens of thousands of Iranians chanting "Burn, Curse, Burn!" marched to the U.S. Embassy Friday amid faint signs that Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat may have made a breakthrough toward winning the freedom of the American hostages inside.

"Arafat has been in direct touch by phone with the authorities in Tehran," Zehdi Labib Terzi, the Palestine Liberation Organization's A.N. observer, disclosed late Friday afternoon. Terzi said he was told by Arafat to expect further news about midnight EST, but at midnight Terzi told UPI there was nothing to report at the moment and the major news would come later out of Beirut, Lebanon.

Terzi, whose announcement came hours after the U.N. Security Council urged Iran "in the strongest terms" to free the 60 to 65 hostages, did not identify the Iranian authorities who talked to Arafat or give any indication about what his announcement will be.

But his statement provided the first glimmer of hope that the PLO, despite contradictory statements over the exact purpose of its mission to Tehran, may have persuaded the Iranians to move off their all-or-nothing stance.

In Tehran, informed sources said the PLO mission, headed by Saad Sayel, Arafat's military operations aide, had met with Iran's new foreign minister, Abol-Hassan-Bani-Sadr, 46, who was appointed Friday by Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council. Details of the meeting were not available.

A PLO spokesman said Sayel, also known as Abu Waleed, had been "very busy" but insisted he had nothing to do with the effort to obtain the release of American hostages.

The PLO announcement came shortly after two Iranian officials in the United States made statements indicating a possible break in the stalemate.

Iran's U.N. Charge d'Affaires Jamal Shemirani told U.S. reporters he felt "the situation is improving" though cautioning much of his information was coming from Western news reports.

MX racetrack system assailed

Senate OK's biggest defense bill ever

WASHINGTON — The Senate Friday night passed a $131.7 billion defense appropriation bill, the largest money bill ever considered by Congress, after overwhelmingly defeating a move to kill the MX mobile missile program.

However, the Senate implicitly assailed the Carter administration's plan to deploy the new intercontinental ballistic missile on a series of "racetracks" in the Nevada and Utah deserts.

By an 89-0 vote, the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, declaring that there is no commitment to the racetrack system and that the Pentagon should consider all options for deployment of the MX, now under development.

Stevens denounced the racetrack system as a "Rube Goldberg" affair that "may simply be too expensive to complete."

However, the Senate left no doubt that it favored the $33 billion MX program as a means of offsetting the expected vulnerability of the current ICBM force in the mid-1980s.

The MX, a key ingredient in President Carter's strategy to win Senate approval of the new strategic arms limitation treaty, will be, if finally developed, a 190,000-pound missile with 10 warheads. It would be the largest missile ever built by the United States.

By a vote of 77 to 11, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., that would have eliminated $670 million for further development of the MX, which stands for missile-experimental.

As an alternative, Hatfield proposed that the present land-based Minuteman III missile force be deployed in a fleet of small submarines that would cruise off U.S. coastal waters.

Hatfield argued that his alternative would be far cheaper and far less vulnerable than the MX racetrack system advocated by the administration.

"By the late 1980s," Hatfield said, "the MX racetrack system may well be a $50-$70 billion dinosaur lying useless in the middle of the desert, made extinct by the ongoing, complex rush of technology, environmental laws and construction delays."

As envisioned by the administration, the racetrack concept would involve 4,000 launch points for the 200 MX missiles along 200 separate racetracks. By constantly shuttling the missiles around from point to point, the Russians supposedly would not know where to aim their missiles if they tried to knock out U.S. defenses in a surprise attack.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., floor manager of the appropriations bill, acknowledged that he had strong reservations about the racetrack concept and said there might be some merit in Hatfield's alternative. But Stennis said it was vital that development of the MX proceed without the further delay that would result if Hatfield's amendment were adopted.

United Press International Screening "We want Hostages," "Bomb Iran" and "Death to Khomeini," Americans Friday lashed back at Iran's flaunting of U.S. hostages. A group of Iranian demonstrators was beaten in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hard-hat workers, businessmen, housewives and students lined streets by the hundreds in protests from coast to coast to dump ineffective on defiant Iranian student demonstrators.

Hundreds of Iranians marched through Washington, D.C., shouting "Death to the shah!" and demanding their deposed ruler be returned to Tehran for trial.

Counter-demonstrators chanted "De-port-a-tion! de-port-a-tion!" Some yelled, "Aren't you ashamed of yourself, you pigs?" and "Go home, you whores!"

"Eat your oil!" shouted the counter-demonstrators. One man carried a sign that said "Support Iran's revolution, send an Iranian home."

Lines of uniformed police in riot gear kept the groups separated and there was no serious violence.

About 100 Iranians marched near a park in Beverly Hills carrying a photograph of the Ayatollah Khomeini and placards reading, "Send the Shah Back."

They were met by about 500 counter-demonstrators carrying signs saying, "Iranians Drink Oil" and "Roast an Iranian for Thanksgiving."

A group of about 35 counter-demonstrators, including members of the Jewish Defense League, suddenly attacked the Iranians.

Members of the crowd also took pieces of iron pipe from several plumbing trucks parked in the area and threw them at the Iranians. They also pelleted them with garbage and eggs.

NFO: Grain market rigged against farmer

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The world grain system is a beautifully designed network controlled by competent professionals, according to a representative of the National Farmers Organization.

But the system is designed to run on low prices to growers, said Frank Kraft, NFO grain supervisor for the Pacific Northwest. A system can only do what it was designed to do, and the grain system was not designed to give growers a good price.

"The grain trade has only one purpose, and it isn't to help you and I," said Ray Jergeason, an NFO grain representative who works for Kraft.

"It performs its functions very well," Kraft said.

Kraft spoke to about 70 people at the Grain trader grain procurement system as described by the NFO

Holiday Inn on the first day of the NFO state convention here Friday. The convention concludes tonight with a speech from NFO national President Devon Woodland. Woodland is a farmer from Blackfoot.

About two-thirds of the U.S. wheat crop is exported each year. Kraft described how four multinational firms, Continental, Carpath, Dreyfus and Bunjig, effectively control the export business. Between them they handle slightly less than 50 percent of the wheat traded in the world.

"They are more powerful in the grain trade than any government they deal with," he said. "Their job is to move the grain from where it is to where it needs to be, and there's no one who can do it more efficiently than them."

"They are always the first to know anything, and they can use their strength to manipulate prices. They can throw their weight around and cause prices to overreact in whatever way is beneficial to them," he said.

The grain companies set grower prices from the top down, Kraft said. Whoever is going to use the grain naturally wants the lowest price it can get. The grain company offering to sell grain at the lowest price will always get the contract.

After taking out its cost and a reasonable profit, the grain company arrives at the price it can pay for grain from a local shipper or handler, he said. The handler arrives at the price he can pay the grower after taking up his costs plus a reasonable profit. Shipping costs also have to be taken out of the original price set by the grain company. Whatever is left goes to the grower, Kraft said.

"That's no way to build a price," he asserted.

Grain companies work to keep prices low because high prices tend to dry up the supply, he said.

It takes twice as many $2.50 bushels of wheat to "pay" the bills that $5 bushels can pay. Farmers are usually in a cash-shoot position, he said. So when the price is low they have to sell. But if they can afford to wait until the price goes up, they can pay all the bills and still have some wheat to sell if prices get even higher.

In the wheat system, contrary to the law of supply and demand, a low price pushes more wheat onto the market.

"The system they have will never give us the price we need," he said.

The NFO's goal is to organize wheat growers and create an alternate system designed to let the grower set the price for his crop at the cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

Jergeason said that the OPEC countries used to be exploited by a system devoted to supplying cheap oil to the world. "From the time of the Bible the Middle East was poor," he said. But they organized. The OPEC nations have only 7 percent of the world's oil production, but they have an exportable surplus and they are organized, Jergeason said.

"When they first organized, they argued over pennies a barrel, but what was their last price increase? Now they raise the price dollars a barrel," he said.

House limits relief to poor, elderly for winter fuel bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Friday passed a $1.35 billion compromise program to help the poor and elderly pay rising heating costs this winter and sent the measure to the Senate for final action.

Under the legislation, no one person could receive more than $250. Actual payments to individuals and families will be determined through a formula that considers heating cost increases and the number of days heat is needed.

The lawmakers also approved a $20 billion program to develop synthetic fuels and solar energy, an effort designed to make America less dependent on imported oil.

Both programs were included in a compromise funding bill for the Interior Department, which now goes to the Senate for final action. The bill itself passed 271-16, but the more controversial home heating amendment was approved by a narrower 182-103 margin.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, voted against the bill, while Idaho Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, did not vote.

SALT II emerges unscathed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday approved the controversial SALT II treaty, making 23 recommendations but no major changes — a signal that the treaty will be a bitter ratification fight is expected.

The final committee vote was 9-6.

The treaty would require the United States and the Soviet Union to field no more than 2,550 strategic bombers and missile launchers after Dec. 31, 1981. It would ban some new systems outright, and impose restrictions on the numbers and quality of others.

"The battle will be close" on the Senate floor, predicted assistant

Democratic leader Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a treaty supporter and one of the body's better nose count.

"Every vote will be vital. But I believe we can win."

Senate sources said they expect the treaty to be ready for Senate consideration Nov. 27.

Democratic leaders believe 60 senators now lean in favor of the treaty, and 30 against, with the other 10 giving no clues.

It takes 67 senators present and voting to approve the treaty. Thus, only 34 senators could kill it — a bivouac of the opposition.

Its supporters see as creating a highly perilous situation.

When the White House issued a statement saying "President Carter is deeply gratified" with the committee's approval, and believes the full Senate "will reach the conclusion that SALT II is in the best interests of the United States and will vote to ratify the treaty."

Supporters had hoped for a 10-5 committee vote to help give the treaty impetus on the floor, but Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, a swing vote, went against it.

Truck driver pinned in cab

MURTAUGH — Jerome County officers and Magic Valley Ambulance personnel late Friday night extricated a driver pinned for three hours in an overturned semi on a rural grade just north of the Murtaugh Bridge.

Officers from Twin Falls County had been at the scene said the driver, the only occupant in the vehicle, was pinned in the partially crushed cab of the semi and officers were having difficulty trying to cut through to rescue him.

Girl accidentally killed by sister

He was freed about 10:30 p.m. The driver had been able to talk with his rescuers and was not believed critically injured. Identity of the driver was not released Friday night.

Officers said the large vehicle, carrying a partial load of frozen potato products, failed to negotiate a curve coming down the grade just before reaching the bridge which crosses the Snake River Canyon. It dropped over an embankment and jackknifed about 7:30 p.m.

Girl accidentally killed by sister

ROGERSON — A 9-year-old Twin Falls girl was shot and killed by her sister at Rogerson Friday night.

The accident occurred about 9 p.m. inside a camper on the back of a pickup truck stopped at the Rogerson service station. Four children were inside the camper, the sisters and two boys of another family. Two families were going deer hunting near Jarbridge and the parents of the girls had gone on ahead to set camp.

Kidnap attempt stopped

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Five Iranian nationals were arrested Friday on charges of conspiring to kidnap Minnesota Gov. Albert H. Quie.

St. Paul police said three of the suspects were arrested inside the governor's mansion, where Quie's wife was hosting a reception for international students. Two others were arrested near the mansion.

Police said two shotguns and a hand grenade were recovered from a car they believed was used by the suspects.

The five, described by police as being in their mid-20's, were charged with conspiracy to commit kidnapping, conspiracy to commit assault and possession of firearms without a permit. They were identified as Hormoz Asadi, Ferdonpour Ghodossi, Mohammad Noori, Hady Haddadi and Antoun Starn-Borush. Police said all were Iranian.

"Information had been received that there may be an attempt to kidnap the governor," Police Chief Richard Brown said. He said authorities were given a description of the car where the weapons were found, which was parked outside the mansion.

Miller sees lower inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller Friday split with other top administration economists and said he sees an end to double digit inflation by spring.

Miller differed with top administration economic officials, Alfred Kahn and Robert Russell, on the potential for reducing inflation to less than 10 percent by spring.

Consumer prices are currently rising at a 13.2 percent annual rate and both Kahn and Russell said there is a strong likelihood the double-digit rates will continue throughout 1980.

Fine levied on nuke plant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission Friday fined Michigan's Consumers Power Co. $450,000 — its largest civil penalty ever — for a long-standing safety violation at its Palisades nuclear plant.

Chairman Joseph Lendrie, conceding the NRC has treated past violators with kid gloves, told reporters he was announcing the fine personally "to make it clear that it's not going to be the case in the future."

Stello said Sept. 31 inspection revealed two valves designed to vent explosive buildups of hydrogen gas in the containment during an accident had been left open, apparently since April 1978.

Korean election scheduled

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Korea's acting president said today a presidential election will be held by Jan. 25, 1980 under the current constitution to replace assassinated President Park Chung-hee.

Acting President Choi Kyu-hah also suggested the newly elected president should — not fill out — the remaining years of Park's term, due to expire in 1984, but instead seek to amend the heavily-criticized constitution Park enacted and call a second presidential election.

Saying the death of South Korean President Park Chung-hee represented a new opportunity, North Korea Friday called on South Korea to "let bygones be bygones" and begin reunification talks.

Bolivians debate government

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — The Bolivian congress Friday night debated a proposal by Col. Alberto Natusch Busch to form an interim government to end Bolivia's bloody crisis, and early speeches indicated members would rebuff the military strongman.

The debate in the packed Congressional Palace across the Murillo Square from Natusch's headquarters in the Quemados Presidential Palace started with a moment of silence for the 73 people who reportedly died in the army's repression of anti-Natusch protests.

Five escapes to go

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. (UPI) — Authorities concentrated their search Friday night for one of 16 escapees from the state's maximum security prison in the Parkersburg area.

"We've got 10 down and five to go," said Col. Fred Donohoe of the state police, referring to the nine who were recaptured. Another escapee, James Collins, bled to death following the breakout Wednesday night.

Nellie McCall won't move for dam UPI

Resident stalls Tellico Dam

GREENSBORO, Tenn. (UPI) — Frail Nellie McCall sat in her white frame house clutching letters, up support from "them college kids" and vowed federal marshals would have to carry her bodily away from the small farm about to be "swallowed up" by the controversial Tellico Dam.

The Tennessee Valley Authority had told Mrs. McCall, 75, she must leave the farm Friday or be evicted.

She and two families are among the last roadblocks between TVA and completion of the much-delayed dam, on which TVA has spent $111 million.

The utility refused to say when the eviction process would take place.

Mrs. McCall proudly unfolds letters she has received from university students who vow to join her if federal marshals come.

"Them college students are something else. They really got more sense than the grownups," she said.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati Saturday denied an injunction requested by the Cherokee Indians, who were trying to stop the government from closing the gates on the dam. The Indians claimed the waters would flood their sacred burial grounds.

Lawyers for the Indians said they would carry the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Marchers will come armed

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Despite police warnings, the Communist Workers Party said Friday members would carry weapons to Sunday's funeral march for the five demonstrators shot and killed during an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally last weekend.

"We will guarantee the security and armed defense of the march," said CWP leader Nelson Johnson. "If we are attacked, we will defend ourselves and the funeral march."

City officials have said anyone carrying weapons at the march would be arrested.

Brown wants party chief out

By United Press International

President Carter Friday won a vote of confidence from members of the Democratic National Committee, but California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. called for the chairman of that panel to resign for openly supporting Carter.

Meanwhile Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who leads both Brown and Carter in polls among Democrats, took his campaign to Jimmy Carter country, while Brown began his uphill climb in Kennedy's backyard.

Brown told reporters it is "highly unlikely a committee that is supposed to be neutral can be kept in a position of neutrality if the chief has endorsed Carter."

Carter overwhelmed Kennedy and Brown in a straw vote at the Democratic National Committee meeting in San Antonio, Texas.

The ballot, arranged by the American Broadcasting Company with committee cooperation, showed Carter 90, Kennedy 44 and Brown 2, with 12 members undecided.

Today's weather

Mostly fair, cool and windy at times

Twin Falls: Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:

Fair through today. Windy at times. Highs today and Sunday 45 to 50 degrees. Lows in the upper teens to middle 20s.

Camas Prairie, Halley, lower Wood River valley:

Fair through today. High today and Sunday middle 40s to low 50s in the teens.

Synopsis:

A fair, cool weekend appears in prospect for the Magic Valley and most of Idaho.

This is a result of a high pressure ridge building well into the Gulf of Alaska, causing fairer skies in the southern portion of the state and partly cloudy to cloudy conditions in the north. A low level inversion has trapped stagnant air over nearly all the northwest but some relief may be in store for northern Idaho as a minor disturbance slides over the high today.

Gusty winds buffeted the Magic and Treasure valleys Friday. Mountain Home reported gusts of 31 miles an hour while velocities of 15 to 20 miles an hour were reported at several stations.

Low temperatures Friday morning ranged from a low of 2 above zero at Stanley to readings in the lower 30s. Some other chilly spots included 16 at Soda Springs, 17 at Dixie and 22 at Boise. The warmest reading in the state Friday was 54 at Fayette. Highs ranged from the upper 30s to near 50 degrees.

The warmest spot in the Idaho Friday was Corpus Christi, Texas with 90 degrees, while Devils Lake, North Dakota, had the coldest reading, 1 below zero.

For northern Nevada, fair skies are forecast through Sunday with lows in the upper teens and low 20s and highs in the 50s. In northern Utah, fair skies are forecast through Sunday with lows in the 20s and highs near 50.

The extended forecast for Monday through Wednesday calls for fair, dry weather with near seasonal temperatures. Highs will be in the 40s with lows in the 20s.

Survey surprise

Bureaucrats satisfied with jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study described as the first ever survey of what government workers think about their jobs said Friday most workers like what they do but think getting ahead has nothing to do with how well they perform.

Alan Campbell, director of the Office of Personnel Management, which conducted the survey, said it seems to indicate the nation's 2.1 million federal workers have about the same feelings toward their jobs that their non-government counterparts have.

The study, to which 14,000 workers responded, found that 76 percent were satisfied with their jobs, 60 percent did not plan to find another job and 85 percent agreed that "what happens to this organization is really important to me."

But when asked how likely it was that they would be promoted or given a better job if they performed well, 56 percent said it was unlikely, and 48 percent disagreed when asked if their supervisor would take appropriate action if they did their job poorly.

Campbell said those findings — including another which said 46 percent hardly ever got feedback from their supervisor — point out some of the problems which the recently initiated civil service reform is designed to change.

"The system has not emphasized rewards based on performance and that's what civil service reform is all about," Campbell told a news conference.

The poll also found that government workers outside the Washington, D.C., area were generally more satisfied with their jobs than those in the capital — 80 percent compared to 74 percent.

Campbell said he was "somewhat surprised" to find so many workers were satisfied with their jobs because he hears from unions and others that there is a high level of dissatisfaction.

The study also found:

- Federal workers (90 percent) think they work hard, compared to only 71 percent of non-federal workers in a more limited poll of the private sector conducted several years ago.

- Managers are more satisfied with their pay than senior executives.

- Eighty-three percent of federal workers found their job meaningful, about the same percentage as in the poll of non-government workers.

- Sixty percent said affirmative action programs to bring more women and racial minorities into the government — have helped advance employment.

Texas legislator Clay Smothers is a fan of the Dallas Cowboys and he thinks Ed "Too Tall" Jones is a great football player. He also thinks Jones is a lousy boxer who ought to abort his fledgling ring career and return to the Cowboy lineup. Accordingly, he's challenged him to a three-round bout. The stakes: If Jones loses so much as one round, he'll immediately trade the gloves for the pliskin. And if Smothers loses, he'll "quit politics forever."

OH WELL...

It had to be a matter of protocol, Queen Elizabeth couldn't really mean it. After all — kinkfolk were involved. The queen Friday sent a brief telegram to Soviet leaders in Moscow, congratulating them on the 22nd anniversary of a Communist revolution. Bankrupt county shuts doors

GRANT CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A ringing telephone in Worth County's ramshackle 80-year-old courthouse ended behind locked doors Friday, the last day the bankrupt county could afford to pay its utility bills.

County employees — knowing November paychecks would be slim and there would be no December checks — moved files and furniture and reopened their offices in their homes. It was the only way the county could operate at all, following to a decision Thursday by the county's three judges.

But at least the county — which is closing its jail, its courthouse and the road and bridge department — will have some law enforcement though the end of the year.

Gov. Joseph P. Tensdale ordered the "ice" highway patrol to help maintain the law in the state's Unist county.

A cartoon illustration of a man playing a guitar while sitting at a table with two other people. A speech bubble above him says "HOW SAD- AND TRAGIC!". The man is wearing a hat and a suit. The two other people are also wearing suits. The table is set with a white tablecloth and several small dishes. The background is simple, with a few lines suggesting a room. The cartoon is signed "GARY BASEMAN" in the bottom left corner.

REMEMBER YOUR VOWELS, FLO-

A cartoon illustration of a man with a large, round head and a small body. He is wearing a striped shirt and shorts. He has a speech bubble above him that says "HAH!". He is standing on a small, rectangular base.

I DON'T BELIEVE THIS, MAN! OL' DUKE BEQUEATHED ME EVERYTHING!

I DON'T BELIEVE IT, EITHER. ESPECIALLY SINCE THIS DOESN'T LOOK LIKE HIS HANDWRITING!

WELL, I KNEW YOU'D THINK THAT, MAN..

"I MIGHT HAVE SUSPECTED THE SAME THING HAD I NOT SEEN THE SWORN STATEMENTS OF TWO HANDWRITING EXPERTS SAYING THAT THE LETTER WAS DEFINITELY WRITTEN BY DUKE!"

Words can create panic easily no matter what

On the morning of May 30, 1893—only six days after the Brooklyn Bridge was opened—there already was a lot of heartburn among an engineer that it was about to be called "Words' Bridge." By mid-afternoon, an enormous crowd packed around the far ends of the bridge to see it fall. An anonymous visitor yelled, "It's going!" And 12 persons were trampled to death while another 40 were injured. Word history is speckled with similar disasters, the outgrowth of such "whispered remarks" as "Fire in the kitchen," "A leak in the boiler," "A crack in the dam." And consider the financial disaster brought on by the "rumor and phrase" like "The watered stock," "embezzled funds," "facing bankruptcy." Words, words, words.

Sir, In what sequence every morning do you shave, shower and brush your teeth? The survey takers have learned that most men brush their teeth first, whichever of the other two they do second and third. They conclude the sequence is not significant, providing it's the same each day; If a man, who normally brushes, shaves, then showers, gets thrown off his routine for some reason—so as to shower first, then brush, and shave, for example—he is likely to be uncomfortable all day long.

At age 10, a child is too old to need a babysitter and too young to be one. That's the contention of a mother who says she worries therefore more about her 10-year-old than about any of her other children. Reasonable maybe. Still, it should be noted that youngsters that age have outgrown the dangers of the common acute infections, but still are too young to face the chronic diseases of the later years. Age 10 statistically is the safest year of human life.

Say you go to the stadium to watch a football game, then try out a fancy dinner in a classy restaurant, and wind up the evening with drinks near a dance floor. That's what numerous souls regard as an adventurous escapade. But it's, in fact, fairly well formatted. When at the game, dinner or dance, you're pretty much go by the rules. Out on the town is not where the imaginative action is. Home is the spot for that. There you can make your own rules, experiment, change, indulge your whims. G. K. Chesterton got it right: "The home is not the one (same) place in the world of adventure. It is the one wild place in the world of rules."

REV. JERRY POLLARD

Religious leaders pushing SALT pact

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Following Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaties, President Carter was effusive in his praise for the religious community and their efforts at both the national and grass roots level in generating support for the controversial treaties.

Now the religious community has an even tougher project — generating the same kind of support for the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, known as SALT II.

Carter recently met with representatives of some 40 denominations, most of them top leaders, and told them "your voice can be extremely important in shaping policies in this country."

Following the meeting with Carter, the religious leaders fanned out across Capitol Hill, zeroing in on 60 Senators in an effort to persuade them to vote for the SALT agreement.

The representatives ranged across the theological spectrum from the Union of American Hebrew Congregations to the Progressive Baptists to the Roman Catholic Church and the Islamic community.

"With three nuclear weapons being manufactured each day in the United States," said David Saperstein of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, "the moral forces of this nation are obligated to speak out now. SALT II must be ratified as a first step toward preserving our world for generations to come."

The message of the religious community is a simple one — SALT II is a first step and if it is rejected it is unlikely the arms limitation talks will go forward.

Blackwood Brothers in concert

TWIN FALLS — The Blackwood Brothers will perform a gospel concert at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Among their credits, the Blackwood Brothers provided the only music at the 1978 Presidential Prayer Breakfast in Washington, D.C. They were also chosen by Billy Graham to be a part of the Memphis Crusade.

The praise gathering is admission free. The public is invited.

BRIAN BROWN

Jerome youth on LDS mission

JEROME — Brian Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Brown of Jerome, will serve a two-year mission for the LDS Church in Catania, Italy.

He will enter the Missionary Training Center in Provo, Utah, on Nov. 15.

Brown graduated from Jerome High School in 1978 and attended Ricks College one year.

A farewell testimonial will be held this Sunday at 4:45 p.m. in the Jerome LDS Stakehouse.

DARYL KENNETH HUNT

Youth called on Korean mission

KIMBERLY — Daryl Kenneth Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunt of Kimberly, will serve a two-year mission for the LDS Church in Seoul, Korea.

He will enter the Missionary Training Center in Provo, Utah, on Nov. 15.

A farewell will be held this Sunday at 3:15 p.m. in the Kimberly LDS Church. The public is invited.

Methodists slate Harvest Dinner

FILER — The Piler United Methodist Church will hold its annual Harvest Dinner on Nov. 10 from 5-8 p.m. at the church. Dinner will include ham and turkey for all the trimmings. A Country Store will offer locally produced homemade candies, fresh produce and canned goods for sale.

Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door. For further information call the church.

She has been in Provo, Utah the past three months at the LDS mission training center studying French and has also spent time studying at the Baton Rouge, La. mission.

Kimberly First Baptist

WENDELL — The stewardship theme at the United Presbyterian Church is "Happiness is Yours for the Giving." The pastor of the congregation, the Rev. Francis E. Horner, will preach "Spiritual and Material Aspects of the Stewardship Theme" at both the 9 and 11 a.m. services this Sunday.

The Sunday school staff is preparing the Christmas program for presentation in Dec. All young people will be given a part in the program.

Cambodians' plight overwhelms Rosalynn

UBON, Thailand (UPI) — An emotionally overwhelmed Rosalynn Carter saw the human face of the Indochinese tragedy Friday: the Cambodian refugees' half dead, emaciated and Laotian hope of a new life in the United States.

Mrs. Carter spent 90 minutes at Sa Kaeo Camp, which houses 31,000 Cambodians, about 30 miles inside Thailand from Cambodian frontier.

Obviously moved at the sight of rows of pitifully thin men, women and children fighting severe malnutrition, she told reporters it was "like nothing I have ever seen."

Mrs. Carter cradled babies in her arms and spoke soothingly to listless patients in a field hospital who stared vacantly from their camp stretchers. Most of the children sat immobile in Mrs. Carter's arms. One burst into tears.

"It's been just devastating," Mrs. Carter said at the end of her trip. "I can only say I want to go home and do all I can to mobilize our people and see that we do all that we possibly can to help the situation here."

"It's emotionally overwhelming," the first lady said.

Mrs. Carter then flew to Ubon, a Laotian refugee camp once used by the U.S. Air Force as a base in the war against Vietnam.

The 36,000 Laotians at Ubon, unlike the Cambodians at Sa Kaeo, reacted enthusiastically to Mrs. Carter's presence. They crowded around her eagerly, telling her they hoped to be in the United States soon after spending months in Ubon awaiting resettlement.

Mrs. Carter walked through rows of thatched huts, many with neat vegetable gardens, shaking hands and chatting with the refugees.

She ended her day by taking tea with Thailand's King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit under a tower ash and walnut trees in the king's mountain palace at Sakorn Nakhon.

Mrs. Carter has stressed repeatedly since her arrival Thursday the U.S. support for Thailand's decision to take in more than 300,000 Indochinese refugees. At the tea, she presented a $100,000 check to Queen Sirikit, who accepted it in her capacity as president of the Thai Red Cross, which will use the money for medical relief for the refugees.

Bribes charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury Friday indicted McDonnell Douglas Corp., a top vice president and three other officials on charges they concealed more than $7 million in overseas payoffs aimed at helping sell the company's wide-bodied jets.

The 11-count indictment said much of the payoff money went to the officers of King Air Line, the chairman of Philippine Airlines, Zaire's minister of transportation and officials of airlines in Venezuela and Pakistan.

The payoffs allegedly were figured into the price McDonnell charged for the sales to Pakistan, Korea and Venezuela between 1972 and 1977.

The indictment, returned following a two-year investigation, names two members of the board of directors of the nation's second largest defense contractor — James McDonnell III, a vice president, and John Brinkman, president of Douglas Aircraft Co., the firm's largest subsidiary.

Also charged are Charles Forsyth, a vice president of Douglas Aircraft, and Sherman Pruitt Jr., its sales manager.

Spies arrested

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish secret police have arrested 11 Poles on charges of spying on Swedish military installations, it was disclosed Friday.

All the Poles denied the charges of espionage and said they were selling paintings on their trip, police said.

Secret police agents swooped down on the resort village of Hokenas in southern Sweden to arrest four men and four women. Three more men from the communist nation were arrested in Stockholm.

The arrests were made on Wednesday but news of them was only made public Friday.

The State Police Authority said the suspects are accused of drawing up maps of Swedish military installations, police said.

Rights improve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The policies of the Carter administration have contributed to tentative and marginal human rights improvements, a congressional study said Friday.

A report by the Library of Congress conceded it was difficult to judge the exact impact of the policies but concluded that U.S. policy "sensitized" foreign governments to human rights issues.

"The U.S. has been a contributing factor" in many countries where conditions improved.

But the study added, "The record on direct and explicit use of foreign assistance as leverage to bring about specific improvements in human rights conditions is hardly encouraging."

The report said:

"In only five or six instances did we find evidence that actual or explicitly threatened reductions in aid played a significant role in bringing about changes in human rights conditions."

Vatican in debt

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — On Pope John Paul II's orders, the Vatican revealed Friday it was running a deficit of more than $20 million for the current year Friday — a financial disclosure unprecedented in the 1,000-year history of the Roman Catholic Church.

The disclosure — which the pope said was aimed at dispelling "myths" about the church's finances — came in a report issued after a five-day meeting of the College of Cardinals.

The considerable (Vatican) deficit occurring each year — for 1978 a deficit of 17 billion lire or about $20.24 million — has been covered thanks to voluntary contributions from the Catholic world, in particular Peter's Pence.

"The Vatican communique said, 'Peter's Pence is the main source of voluntary annual contributions made by Roman Catholics to the pope.'

China polluted

BEIJING (UPI) — Foreign ecologists have expressed shock at the environmental crisis in China that is slowly making millions of people deaf and ruining monuments and trees in the capital, the official People's Daily newspaper said Friday.

"In a move to protect the people's health, the government announced a health control law to be implemented within three days."

"Noise pollution in our country has reached an extremely serious stage," said the Communist Party newspaper. So serious that it interrupted an international meeting of ecologists in Beijing.

The meeting, attended by experts from the United States, Switzerland, the Philippines, Kenya and China, had been moved to another conference hall to escape machine and automobile noise, the newspaper said.

A look inside the SALT II treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The heart of the SALT II agreement, seven years in the making, is a provision limiting the United States and the Soviet Union to 2,250 strategic bombers and missile launchers each.

And the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, while making no major changes, approved 23 recommended "conditions" before sending the treaty to the full Senate on a 9-6 vote Friday.

Under the treaty, the Soviets will be obliged to dismantle about 250 older missiles, ban deployment of the SS-16 strategic missile, and refrain from giving the SS-18 super-heavy missiles mobility to make them a more difficult target.

Perhaps most significantly, the Soviet Union has agreed not to equip its biggest missiles with more than 10 individual warheads each.

The two superpowers agreed not to hide their strategic weapons, engage in deliberate concealment or interfere with each other's spy satellites.

To obtain these restraints on the Soviet Union, the United States had to make concessions.

It allowed the Kremlin to continue deployment of 108 SS-16s — a weapon of a sort the American military has no desire to produce.

The United States also agreed not to count the Soviet Backfire bomber as a strategic weapon. It now is deployed as a medium bomber, but could undertake strategic missions against the United States.

Obviously still concerned about so-ling too far in reducing their arsenals, the two sides agreed that each may build one new type of strategic missile.

Each may modernize older missiles so long as this does not entail more than a 5 per cent change in diameter, length, launch weight, and throw weight — the weight of the weapon itself.

The Foreign Relations Committee spent four months scrutinizing the pact. Members offered 35 changes, but wound up adopting only 23 "interpretive" conditions for ratification.

The major one would require President Carter to assure that Soviet troops in Cuba have no combat role and present no threat.

Another "understanding" would require the president to report to the Senate regularly on Soviet compliance.

Still another would require that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev make formal his oral assurances that the Backfire bomber will not be used against the United States.

The pact also called for an understanding that the treaty will not prevent the United States from supplying military technology and modern weapons to NATO.

Treaty critics complained that it would not limit missiles, just missile launchers, leaving the Soviets free to build up a reserve stock of missiles for a second strike against the United States.

The critics also said the pact would not sufficiently reduce either side's strategic arsenal, while still allowing both to modernize their forces.

U.S. contributed to Soviet weapons

By WALTER PINCUS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A government intelligence expert said Thursday that it was "a reasonable assumption" that the Soviet Union used sophisticated machinery purchased from the United States six years ago to develop the new, accurate guidance system in its SS-18, the world's largest and most destructive intercontinental ballistic missile.

Dr. Jack Vorona, assistant vice-director for scientific and technical intelligence of the Defense Intelligence Agency, also told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee that:

• At least some of the trucks produced by a plant built with U.S. technology are being used by the military, and the plant's excess engines may be destined for other military vehicles.

• Illegally diverted IBM 360 and 370 computers may have been the cornerstone for a computer system that directs Warsaw Pact air defense.

• A student exchange program permitted the Soviets to send one young engineer to the United States to study "fuel-air explosives" — a particularly large-blast weapon system. The man, Vorona testified, is now involved in the Soviet fuel-air explosive program.

Vorona's testimony may signal a new attempt to curtail commercial sales sharply and limit academic exchanges with the Soviets by government officials who believe the United States should take a harder line with Moscow.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind.-Va., who chaired the hearing, asked Vorona, "Would it be accurate to say American know-how is being used to develop the Soviet war machine?"

"Yes sir, very accurate," the witness replied.

That view, however, is not held throughout the government, as battles within various administrations over the past 20 years have shown.

By law, the Commerce Department must license sales of certain goods to the Soviet Union in a process that has been the focus of continuing controversy.

In 1973 and 1974, for example, the Pentagon opposed, but the Commerce Department and the White House finally approved, the sale of 164 precision miniature ball bearings grinding machines.

Those bearings, Vorona said Thursday, "are making a distinctive contribution to the Soviet military effort, and could very well be producing the precision miniature ball bearings used in current and follow-on high quality guidance system aboard Soviet ballistic missiles."

Vorona touched another matter of controversy involving Soviet trade by calling attention to "an Austrian firm" that is the world's leading producer of equipment used to make high-quality artillery tubes.

The Soviets, he said, have purchased "probably hundreds of millions of dollars worth" of this company's machinery, and now "have the greatest gun-barrel manufacturing capability in the world."

One of Vorona's charges — that the Soviet-U.S. student exchange program "has been detrimental to the U.S." — was challenged in part Thursday by an official involved in the program who asked to remain anonymous.

Vorona said some Soviet students, by previous training, the equals of U.S. Ph.D.s, have involved themselves in projects in "hard sciences," such as advanced electronics and computer technology.

Conversely, Vorona said, American students going to the Soviet Union tend to concentrate on "language, history, social sciences."

State can resolve 1% dilemmas, Evans says

KAMIAH (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans said Friday night the dilemmas created by the 1 percent initiative and energy are problems "not without solutions."

Evans told the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce they were challenges for all state citizens to demonstrate that Idaho "ingenuity and willingness" would solve the problems as had been done in the past.

He said while the full imposition of the 1 percent initiative has not been felt, the interim measures have been "traumatic."

"When the initiative does become law, the fiscal impact on local governments will be enormous," the governor said.

Evans said voter approval of the 1 percent was their way of saying "in no uncertain terms" they want lighter tax burdens, government fiscal restraint and government at all levels to operate more efficiently.

He said he already has taken steps to provide greater efficiency in government with the appointment of his Management Task Force, which developed 212 recommendations for improving the management and administration of state government services.

The task force recommendations originally indicate there could be an annual savings of more than $18 million, but Evans told the chamber members that as the recommendations were being reviewed and modified it appeared the savings would reach $25 million a year.

Evans said he has repeatedly expressed three basic energy policies for the state — adequate supply, effective conservation and reasonable rates. He said these three policies have been "the cornerstone of the activity of the present Office of Energy."

Idaho's chief executive said Idaho must begin to manage its own energy future in the best interests of all its citizens.

"One way to do this is to restructure the present Office of Energy into a full agency, which would provide Idaho with the proper vehicle to plan, manage and develop our energy resources," he said.

"We need to meet our energy problems head on and start making those important decisions necessary to maintain that very special quality of life we enjoy here in Idaho."

Evans said of "critical importance" to the quality of life is the wilderness proposal approved by the U.S. Senate

Energy and Natural Resources Committee, which would create a 2.2 million acre River of No Return Wilderness area in Central Idaho.

"The proposal will allow Idaho to protect our wilderness values, while at the same time insuring that our resource dependent industries will remain an important part of our economic future," he said.

He called congressional action this year on the wilderness proposal "one of the most important decisions ever made affecting Idaho's back country heritage."

"Turning to revenue projections, Evans said he did not support the pessimistic view that Idaho might have a $11 million shortage in its projected revenues.

"I'm far more optimistic and I am confident our state revenues will be very close to our original projections and maybe even a little higher," the governor said.

Gooding Co. case not a state issue, high court told

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Boise attorney Phillip Barber argued Friday before the Idaho Supreme Court that the state of Idaho, plaintiff in a case against Gooding County Commissioner or Donald James Wilkins, should not have been involved.

He said the dispute over whether or not Wilkins was legally serving as a county commissioner was a Gooding County issue and should have been resolved by Gooding County action.

Barber, representing Wilkins, and Warren Felton of the Idaho Attorney General's Office argued in the state's appeal of the case to the Supreme Court.

Felton said Wilkins ran for office and was elected in 1978 from Gooding District 1 in Gooding County. At that time he was actually a resident of District 2. He took office in January, and in February the commissioners voted to change the commission districts. The change placed Wilkins home in District 1. The state brought action the following June to remove Wilkins from his office.

Judge Sherman Bellwood of the 5th District ruled in favor of Wilkins, dismissing the state action. He held that the state law cited by the state as being in violation by the county commissioner's action was inapplicable to the case because when the action was filed, Wilkins was residing in the district he was elected to represent. The court also awarded costs to Wilkins.

Felton argued the state law stipulates the candidate seeking to represent a commission district must reside in that district. He quoted a number of other court cases which substantiate that claim.

Asked by Justice Joseph McFadden if Wilkins voted on changing the boundaries of the commission district and if his vote was crucial or simply with the majority, Felton said he did not have an answer to that question.

He said Idaho law further provides that changes in district boundaries are to be made in January preceding the general election. He asked for reversal of the lower court's action favoring the defendant and of the costs awarded the defendant.

Barber told the court there is no provision in Idaho law that a commission candidate must be a "resident" of the district he represents. It says, rather, that the candidate must be an "elector" of the district he represents. Barber quoted the law's definition of an elector, showing no restrictions as to residence.

"Any evidence referring to 'resident' is simply being read into the law by the state," Barber said.

Barber said the state of Idaho has no obligation in the case, only the people of Gooding County, and the issue should have been left to Gooding County.

Wilkins, he said, was elected and certified by the state as a commissioner of Gooding County representing District 1 well before the state brought its action. Barber held the district court ruling was proper and that the defendant should not have to pay attorney fees in the matter.

The Supreme Court concluded a week long appeals session in Twin Falls Friday, hearing arguments in an appeal by Ira H. Hoffman.

Hoffman was a defendant in the complaint of Shawn Lynn Briley, a minor, and Roy D. Briley. Hoffman was represented by Jon Shindlerling of Twin Falls, who argued the district court erred in finding Hoffman responsible for the actions of his co-conservator, Nicholas Bond, also a defendant in the original case. Hoffman and Bond were named co-conservators of Shawn Briley's estate.

The trial court found Bond absconded with a life insurance benefit and held Hoffman responsible. Shindlerling argued Hoffman was relieved of the responsibility when a magistrate ordered the insurance policy proceeds to be paid only to Bond.

James Jones, of Jerome, representing Briley, argued Hoffman breached his fiduciary duty as co-conservator by failing to protect Briley from the loss through Bond's actions.

The Supreme Court heard 14 appeals in Twin Falls this week and will evaluate testimony and arguments, announcing decisions within the next few months.

Winner, hands down

Walt Nelson, Twin Falls, enjoyed a laugh Friday after throwing down a card during a fast-paced game of pinocle. Nelson, who is a member of the Twin Falls Senior Citizen Center, was one of 36 players who simultaneously played the card game at the Kimberly Senior Citizen Center. Grace McFarland, a co-chairman of recreation for Kimberly's Center, said, "The people who come here really enjoy these games." A pinocle player's hand, inset, shows the furious card shuffling that occurs during the games.

Felony charges dropped

BURLEY — Plea bargaining during a pre-trial conference before Judge Roy Hollaway led to the dropping of felony charges against Jacquelline Johnson in Cassia County Magistrate Court Tuesday.

Michael Douglas entered guilty pleas for Johnson, his client, to misdemeanors of conspiracy to commit prostitution and conspiracy to exhibit obscene film after prosecuting attorney Alfred Barrus agreed to drop the felony charge of harboring a prostitute.

Barrus explained he dropped the felony charge because he no longer had sufficient evidence to prove his case. The felony charge required him proving a prostitute requires her harboring that the women being harbored had not lived in the state for three years.

One of the other two women arrested in the Lee Hotel raid in August had admitted she had not been in the state for three years. But the two women, who were charged with prostitution and conspiracy to exhibit obscene film, forfeited their $1500 bond each and left town.

Judge Hollaway ordered a presentence investigation for Johnson. Sentencing for the misdemeanors will occur on Dec. 7.

Trout company office building okayed

TWIN FALLS — Clear Springs Trout Co. of Buhl was granted permission Thursday night to build a modern office building on Clear Lakes Road about two and one half miles north of Buhl.

The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning commission granted a zoning variance allowing the building in an agricultural zone following a public hearing. There were no protests during the time set for hearing.

Ed Woods, zoning administrator, said the firm operates fish hatchery and processing facilities along the Snake River in Gooding County and wishes to establish a central office facility overlooking the river on the Clear Lakes Road.

In other action, the Commission approved a hearing on rezoning properties along Falls Avenue from the Twin Falls city area of impact boundary to the east end of Falls at Echo Lake. The proposal was previously considered by the zoning board but dropped until the area of impact for the city could be established.

The zone change would be from the present agricultural designation to residential to accommodate the many housing developments in that area.

Several issues were set for public hearing in the December meeting of the zoning board.

A public hearing will be held Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. on request of the LDS Church for construction of a stake house in an agricultural zone one half mile north of Red Cap Corner, north of Kimberly. At the same time a hearing will be held on a request of Ernest Amey to build a small mobile home park on the Clear Lakes Road about two miles north of Buhl, and a request by Cecil Lyons of Buhl for rezoning along U.S.

Highway 30 one mile west of town. Lyons proposes to develop 180 acres and is asking for a commercial zoning on property fronting both sides of the highway and residential zoning at the rear of the property. It is presently in an agricultural zone.

The Commission also extended Craig Nielsen a one-year extension on a canyon rim set-back variance.

Woods said no date is set for the public hearing on changing zoning along Falls Avenue East as there will have to be five legal notices of the proposed plan prior to hearing and these have not been arranged.

Jones hits Hansen demands

JEROME — Jerome attorney Jim Jones, a likely candidate for the Second District Congressional seat now held by Republican Rep. George Hansen, Friday criticized Hansen for suggesting President Carter be impeached.

Hansen made his demand in response to Carter's failure to militarily intervene in Iran to protect Americans held hostage there.

"The actions of the Iranians are barbaric, but we need to use a reasoned approach in protecting American interests," the Jerome Republican said.

Jones said Carter and the Congress "need to approach the crisis in a positive and aggressive manner, but ineffective suggestions will not get the embassy 'free out of danger.'" An impeachment proceeding would take months and fail to generate significant support, Jones said.

"The type of response Mr. Hansen made is exactly what the people who are urging me to run have pointed out when they talk about the need for change," Jones said. "We have many serious problems facing Idaho and America, and we need reasoned solutions and effective legislative action if we ever expect to solve them. We don't seem to be getting that in the Second District at this time."

Couple claims flood damage

TWIN FALLS — A Murtaugh area couple has brought suit against the Murtaugh Highway District for alleged flooding damage to their property following a change in road elevation.

Clifford and Wanda Selvers have asked the court for a declaratory judgment to determine the rights of the property owners and of the highway district regarding the natural water drainage in the area.

"They asked the court to order the district to show cause why it should not be required to either restore the road to its 1976 condition and to prevent the district from blocking the roadway until proper drainage structures have been installed to protect the Selvers' property."

They also ask $50,000 in damages to cover flooding which occurred in the fall of 1978 and the spring of 1979.

The couple charges the highway district changed the road level in 1978. The couple built a new home in 1976; the complaint says, and at that time the lawn and yard around the home was higher than the road and surrounding fields, protecting it from any flooding by the natural drainage of the road.

After the roadway was lowered by the highway district, water drained into their property damaging the home and other buildings, the complaint alleges.

Upper reservoirs at 38% capacity

BURLEY — Irrigation storage reservoirs of the Bureau of Reclamation's upper Snake River system are about 38 percent filled at this time, with 1.49 million acre feet of water in storage.

"The Bureau's November report shows upper area reservoirs contain good storage while those downstream such as American Falls are low at this time of year."

There is a carry over of 302,400 acre feet of water in Jackson Lake, or 60 percent of the restricted capacity of 624,360 acre feet.

Palisades contains 52 percent of capacity with 626,167 acre feet and a capacity of 1.2 million acre feet.

The small Ririe Reservoir, with a 90,000 acre foot capacity, is at 46 percent of capacity with 41,647 acre feet in storage.

Stream flow of the river is 1,000 cubic feet per second near Palisades, up from 214 cfs on the South Fork just below Jackson Lake. Stream flow below Blackfoot is 1,983 cfs.

American Falls reservoir, with a capacity of 1.6 million acre feet, has only 12 percent of that or 195,934 acre feet in storage at this time because of the heavy irrigation season use.

Lake Walcott has just two percent of normal with 1,810 acre feet and Milner is at 30 percent with 9,163 acre feet.

Upper reservoirs have been kept at good levels throughout the summer, assuring a good carry over coming into the new water year that began last month. Bureau of Reclamation officials say this should pretty well guarantee an adequate irrigation season in 1980 regardless of precipitation this winter.

Lower reservoirs, where initial irrigation demands are met, will be filling with carry over and the surplus from the upper area storage units.

Monday holiday

TWIN FALLS — Monday will be a holiday for many Idaho residents.

In Twin Falls all state, federal and local government offices will close for a three-day Veterans Day holiday.

Most professional offices will be closed, but not major stores. Jay Hoyer, Chamber of Commerce manager, said merchants in Twin Falls will be open with special sales events.

All stores are expected to be open, promoting a Veterans' Day program, theme of which is "be a veteran in the fight against inflation."

Schools in Twin Falls will be open with a normal schedule.

Filer needs highway director

FILER — Residents of the Filer Highway District will elect a director to a four-year term in an election Dec. 3.

John Ortel, present director from sub-district three, is not running for re-election.

Nominating petitions may be obtained from the highway district or by calling Mrs. Lyle Dietrich, district clerk, at 329-4588. Petitions must be signed by at least five persons living in the third sub-district and returned to the Filer Highway District office by Nov. 23. Nominees must reside in the sub-district, but voting is district wide in the Dec. 3 election. Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Committee of Nine to meet

BURLEY — The Committee of Nine, Water District 1, will meet in the Best Western Burley Inn (formerly Ramada) banquet room at 10 a.m. Nov. 30.

A report from the Power Loss Committee will be given by Vaughn Egan and Leo Busch will speak on the reservoir and flood operations of 1979. Ronald Carlson will give a review of the 1979 irrigation season.

The CV-80 budget will be Carlos C. Randolph's topic, and Rodney Vissia, PN Regional Director, will address the committee.

The Power Loss Committee will meet at the Bureau of Reclamation Office Nov. 30 at 9 a.m. in Burley.

Couple awarded $26,000 in case

TWIN FALLS — A couple who charged they were induced to give up employment in Nevada to manage a dairy in the Magic Valley was granted $26,000 in damages in 5th District Court.

A judgment rendered this week granted the couple damages, finding their employer breached a contract with the couple.

Duane and Dee Lynn Fox brought suit against Juanita Davis, charging she lured them to manage a dairy she owns, promising a salary of $1,200 per month and the deed to 10 acres of land at the end of one year. The Foxes charged they carried out their part of the agreement, but the employer failed to make good on her agreement.

In their original complaint, they asked for $28,400 back payment owed and $42,830 in punitive damages.

Dog poisonings hit Hailey

HAILEY — Hailey city citizens have reported three separate incidents of dog poisonings in the last week.

According to Police Chief Dan Norton, the problem occurs about once a year, usually in the fall or winter. The poison is probably 1080, an odorless, colorless liquid originally used to kill coyotes, Norton said. It is believed that people are luring dog food and raw meat with the undetectable substance, which kills after the bait is consumed.

1080 (sodium fluoroacetate) was banned by the federal government several years ago because it was felt that smaller predators and birds that fed on poisoned coyotes could die as well. Norton said many farmers may still have the 1080 poison left over from the years before the ban.

The poisoned dogs have all come from the northeast corner of the city.

Parks to transfer licensing duties?

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Parks and Recreation Board directed its department Friday to draft plans for the proposed transfer of recreation licensing duties from the state Law Enforcement Department.

State law enforcement officials have prepared draft legislation to transfer the administration of registration of snowmobiles, motorcycles, motorboats and cross-country skiing to the Parks and Recreation Department.

The parks board Friday said it would go along with the proposal, but said its department first must have adequate funding to cover all costs of the program transfers and full spending authority immediately for the 1980 and 1981 fiscal years to administer the programs.

The board advised the Legislature to wait on the Law Enforcement proposal until the parks department has time to study the proposal and make its own recommendations. A parks spokesman said it was doubtful the department could formulate its own proposal in time for the next legislative session.

Department officials also said they might not want to take over administration of motorboat licensing.

In other action, the board gave initial approval to rules governing the administration of the Cross-Country Skiing Act, passed by the Legislature last session. The act established a funding program for snow removal in newly designated winter parking areas for skiers and snowmobile users.

The cross-country ski regulations now will be subjected to public hearings before final approval.

Man faces charge

BURLEY — Brent Redd, 18, was charged with receiving stolen property in Burley Magistrate Court.

In the process of being stopped on Nov. 2 by a state patrolman for a traffic violation, Redd was found to have in his possession a shotgun which police said had been stolen from the Palomares Center on West Main Street on Oct. 21. Bond was set at $500.

Citizens oppose overnight camping in parks

By SUSAN MCBRYANT

HAILEY — Thirty homeowners and concerned citizens voiced strong opposition against the development of overnight camping in two new community parks at the Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Thursday night.

The parks, both located along the Big Wood River, will receive matched funding for development from the Soil Conservation District and the city.

Gail Roberts of the SCD presented a preliminary plan for the two parks which included picnic areas, tennis courts, baseball diamonds, river float ramps and overnight camping. The latter two proposals drew considerable comment.

Mayor Emory Dietrich told the crowd that all suggestions for the development of the parks would be considered in the final plans.

Tom Hanson, resident of Della View subdivision, where the lower park will be located, presented a petition with over 100 signatures protesting the camping provision in the park's plans. He noted that the area is zoned residential and that public overnight camping would be inconsistent with that designation. Hanson also questioned the safety of encouraging tubing and rafting between the two parks, a distance of about 1 mile.

Newly elected city councilmen Wardell Rainey and Grant Patterson were in attendance and expressed concern about the maintenance and policing of public camping areas.

Zelkenon said that "the assets of public camping wouldn't make up for the headache." He said that groups of over-nighters would lead to beer parties and the increased need for police patrolling.

The two parks exceed 17 acres and both border the river. They would be developed in three phases over a period of three years.

Mayor Dietrich also suggested the possibility of developing the land next to the armory at the south entrance of Hailey. Comments from the audience indicated a preference in making that park a rest area/camp ground coupled with a baseball diamond or swimming pool. To date no funds have been allocated for this property.

Airport authority to pick member

BURLEY — The Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority will meet Monday to choose a new board member to fill a position left by Bob Myers who resigned earlier this year.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Law Enforcement Building meeting room. The session is a regular meeting and will cover other items, although no agenda has been set.

Myers resigned his board position because he moved out of the area.

McClure to speak on energy Nov. 17

TWIN FALLS — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, will speak on energy issues Saturday, Nov. 17.

McClure's 10 a.m. speech will be at the Holiday Inn at the regular meeting of the Twin Falls County Republican Women's organization.

Breakfast will be served and the public is invited.

Opportunizing Preston drops Buhl from A-2 playoffs 28-21

Buhl — Preston's dream was Buhl's nightmare Friday when the opportunizing Eastern Idaho team won a state A-2 playoff semi-final 28-21.

What it had taken the Indians 10 full games to accomplish, evaporated in a six-minute nightmare of turnovers in the first half and left the defending state champions nothing to defend.

The result left Magic Valley with just one playoff team alive, the Gooding Senators, who will host Westside at 1:30 p.m. today at Keller Field.

Although Buhl never hit on a full eight cylinders, its offense was good enough to crank up a 13-0 lead midway through the second quarter. The offense started on a muffed punt, followed by two interceptions and by halftime Preston had a 21-13 lead. Although Buhl came back into a tie early in the fourth quarter, it never led again. Preston led it with a short scoring burst 1:58 from the end and then nailed it down with a pass interception with 39 seconds remaining.

As a result, Preston now will host the state championship game next Friday evening against a North-West Idaho entry.

The game was filled with critical plays and mistakes and Preston kept coming up with the big ones at the right time. It's biggest was a fourth and two run by quarterback Jeff Kaiser that kept the final scoring drive alive at the Buhl eight-yard line. Kaiser already had impressed everyone there that a field goal was well within his range. He booted several kickoffs into the end zone and a couple of extra points across the parking lot.

But on fourth and two, the do-everything quarterback threw for a rollout, cut inside and got the first down.

"Sure we were thinking about the field goal," smiled coach Steve Milbrandt afterward. "But I felt we could pull one more out of our bag of tricks."

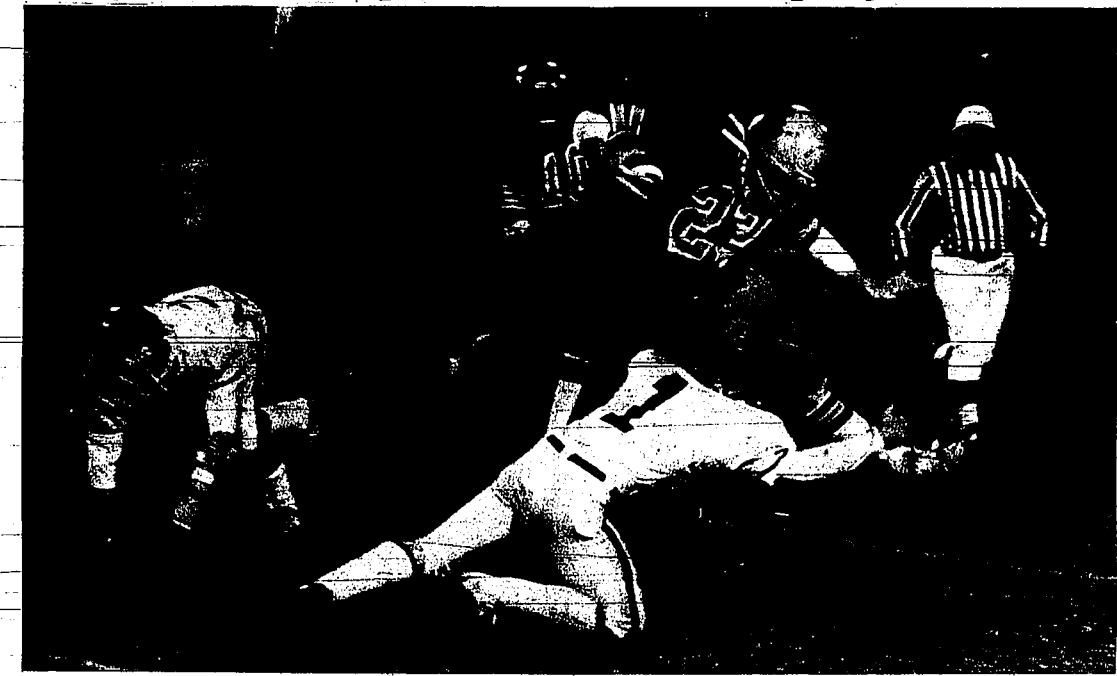

"It was a designed run all the way," he continued. "Buhl's defensive ends made it tough for us to get outside on sprintouts so this time we told our blocker to take the end to the outside and have Jeff cut it back inside."

"Buhl is a tough team and we don't want to let anybody away from them," he said. "But we play nothing but A-2 schools and our defense is tested every time out. We felt it would be a close game but that we could win it. We were a little better football team. I also think that Buhl has a lot of teams around here buffaloed," he went on.

One play from the field, Coach Gregg Smith was still in a near state of shock over the innumerable turnovers and mistakes his charges had made.

"I knew, coming into the game, that one of us was going to go out the loser. It's just too bad for these kids that it had to be us," Smith said.

"I think those first two touchdowns

Buhl halfback Mark Schaal couldn't get past Preston's Cordell Anderson at the corner and was grounded after a short gain during A-2 playoff action Friday.

came too easy for us. We didn't ever play really well and all of a sudden we're up 10-0. I think the kids were still a little flat from last week and then when they got up two touchdowns, they went completely flat."

"It was all just mental mistakes. Mistakes we haven't made all year. The only thing to do now is start thinking about next year and starting all over again."

The game opened in a punt exchange before Buhl got a big break. A pass was deflected by a lineman and linebacker Ken Lively made a diving interception at the Preston 26. That chance appeared killed when Kaiser intercepted back at the seven and two plays later Ricky Richeson made another diving pickoff to set Buhl up on the Preston 24.

On the next play, halfback Mark Schaal swung out of the backfield and up the sideline where he was hit by Tim Hamilton for a 24-yard scoring strike. John Reinstra booted the point-after.

After forcing a Preston punt, Buhl started marching again. The big gainer was a Schaal to Richeson halfback pass that covered 20 yards to the Preston 14. On the first play of the second quarter Schaal took another swing pass for a first down at the four and on fourth and three, he slammed in from the three. The conversion kick was wide.

Again the Buhl defensive unit forced a punt but that was the high water mark for the play. The Indian receiver muffed the catch and Preston recovered at the Buhl 34. After one first down, Preston seemed stymied when Kaiser brought them out looking at a fourth and seven. Buhl flipped one over the middle to Steve Olverson who made the catch in the end zone. Kaiser then drilled the point-after.

Three plays after the kickoff, Kaiser picked off another Buhl pass at the 40 and immediately hit Olverson with a 20-yard game. A penalty carried Preston to the eight and two plays later John Dahle lunged across from the two. Kaiser's conversion shoved Preston ahead 14-13.

In a virtual replay, three plays after the kickoff Buhl tried a pass into the flat but hit Preston's Cordell Anderson squarely in the chest at about the 30. The diminutive Anderson sprinted to the five before being collared and with 49 seconds left in the half, Doug Ralston plunged in from the one. Even after that Preston had another chance when Buhl fumbled the ball after the kickoff but this time Buhl escaped further damage.

It looked like a new Buhl team opening the second half. Behind solid line surge, Schaal carried five straight times to take the ball from the Buhl 37 to the Preston 19. But a fumble stopped that. Preston then turned to a series of short passes and picked up three first downs before losing a fumble to Buhl's Kevin Clark at the Buhl 40.

After an interference call saved an interception, Buhl started driving. It overcame a 15-yard penalty on a 21-yard pass from Tim Hamilton to Bruce Walden that carried to the Preston 20. Walden came back with a seven-yard run and Schaal added eight more. Two plays into the final period, Schaal pulled Buhl to within two on a four-yard option pitch and Walden's burst off tackle got the tying two-point conversion.

Minutes later an errant pitch gave Preston the ball at the Buhl 28 but the visitors fumbled it back on the next play.

Buhl couldn't go and that started the series that sealed its doom. A 15-yard penalty on the end of the punt return carried Preston to the 31. After a first-down pass to Paul McKay, Preston's attack seemed to sputter. Walden made a big tackle for a loss on third and two but that brought up the rollout run by Kaiser on the big fourth and two situation.

On the next play, Dahle took a quick pitch to the three and Ralston then led it with his scoring drive.

Defense gets call

Rams go with rookie passer

By United Press International
The Los Angeles Rams snapped a three-game losing streak last week when they held the Seattle Seahawks to an incredible minus seven yards in a 24-0 victory, and now have a shot to stop the NFC Western Division as they travel to Chicago Sunday to face Walter Payton and the Bears.

However, the victory over the Seahawks, the game films of which left Chicago Coach Neil Armstrong stunned and could not believe his eyes," he said), was costly for the Rams.

Regular quarterback Pat Haden broke his little finger and the team's No. 2 man, Vince Ferragamo, still is sidelined from a broken hand. So the starting spot for Sunday's NFC match up will likely go to rookie quarterback Jeff Rutledge, who completed three of nine after replacing Haden last week and this year has only seven completions for 54 yards. The Rams also signed Bob Lee as a backup.

Still, in view of the Rams' league-leading defense which shut down Jim Zorn, coach Ray Malavasi remains confident.

"He's a good young quarterback who we don't think will make any mistakes," said Malavasi. "His teammates have a lot of confidence in him."

The Rams have not missed a playoff since 1972, but are now 5-5 and tied with New Orleans for the Western division lead. The Rams moved back into playoff contention with their 35-7 win over Detroit, their second straight victory, and trail Tampa Bay by two games with a 5-5 mark.

Both the Rams and the Bears are in terms of the two wild card spots in the NFC, with the Bears looking to duplicate their 1977 finish when they won six straight to make the playoffs. Payton, the NFL's leading rusher with 1,113 yards, is also the Gators' leading pass receiver and has scored nine touchdowns, including eight in the past three games.

In other games Sunday, it is Oakland at Houston, New England at Denver, Baltimore at Miami, Buffalo at the New York Jets, Pittsburgh at Kansas City, San Diego at Cincinnati, Seattle at Cleveland, Atlanta at the New York Giants, Minnesota vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, St. Louis at Washington, San Francisco at New Orleans and Tampa Bay at Detroit.

On Monday, Philadelphia is at Dallas. The Raiders have won five of their six games and trail Western co-leaders Denver and San Diego by one game. The Oilers are tied with the Browns one game behind Pittsburgh in the Central division. Both teams are coming off victories with the Raiders, 6-4, beating San Francisco 29-19 while the Oilers, 7-3, held on for a 9-6 victory over Miami Monday night.

Denver's passing game gets a test against New England, with both teams atop their divisions with 7-3 records. Bronco quarterback Craig Morton had his fourth straight 200-yard game but the Pats lead the NFL with 43 sacks.

Borah, Boise post playoff wins

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — The Boise Braves cashed in on a fumble recovery in the second quarter Friday night after a lethargic start to beat Caldwell 29-14 in the opening round of the Class A-1 state high school football tournament.

Joe Vraspir recovered the end-zone fumble for the Brave's first score and, on Boise's next series, the winners drove 43 yards for the go-ahead touchdown. That came on a 13-yard pass from Rich Panzer to Mike Hobart.

That 13-7 Boise lead still was the score entering the final quarter when Panzer scooped one yard for a touchdown and later passed seven yards to Brian Jones for another score.

Caldwell had broken ahead on Tim Messer's fumble recovery in the end zone, but the Cougars did not score again until the game's final 10 seconds on Jeff Daylong's 37-yard pass to his brother, Steve. The Braves, coached by Jim Carberry, now carry a 9-1 record into next week's semi-finals against Saturday's Skyline-Meridian contest winner. The semi-final game will be in either in Idaho Falls or Boise State University's Bronco Stadium.

BOISE (UPI) — The Borah Lions defeated the Highland Rams 35-12 at Bronco Stadium Friday night to advance to the semi-finals in the state Class A-1 high school football playoffs.

The Lions will play the winner of Saturday's Lewiston-Idaho Falls game next week to decide the semi-final winner. The game started slowly for both teams, but the Lions erupted and scored two touchdowns in the second quarter. The first came with 5:13 into the second quarter when Darren Corning plunged one yard over the Highland defensive line.

The second came just less than three minutes later when Borah quarterback Lance Dunne completed a 21-yard touchdown to senior wingback Phil Winslow. Dunne also connected with wide receiver Jake Jacoby on a 22-yard touchdown pass with 5:47 left in the third quarter. After the kickoff, the Rams failed to produce and had to part with 1:35 left in the third quarter. Nine plays and one minute later, Timmy Holmes evaded several Highland defenders and scampered 13 yards into the end zone.

The extra point conversion was good by sophomore kicker Mark Jensen giving the Lions a 28-0 edge before the Rams made their first touchdown.

The Rams' action began on a 15-play drive with just more than seven minutes left in the game when Highland quarterback Brent Koetter connected with Drew McRoberts on a 19-yard pass completion. The two-point conversion attempt failed, however, leaving the score at 28-6.

The Rams put the ball back after a Borah punt, but the Ram's six-play drive failed, forcing them to punt. Bert Thompson fielded the ball on the 23-yard line and returned it 72 yards.

Bryant shoots for 100th football victory of decade

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

There's nobody who can beat Bryant in the 100th decade of the century.

The tough-minded Alabama football coach stands to become the only coach to win 100 games during the 1970's and can accomplish that plateau Saturday night when the Crimson Tide takes on LSU in Baton Rouge, La. If Bryant fails to accomplish his mission this weekend, there are two more regular season cracks at the goal.

Michigan coach Bo Schembechler has 96 victories for the '70s, but will never reach 100. The Wolverines have only two regular season games remaining.

Seventh-ranked Alabama has eight seniors starting on offense, which ranks second in the nation in rushing with a 371.2 yard average, rates third in scoring with 37.6 points a game and is sixth in the country for total offense on a 449.9 yard average.

"We expect anything, anytime from Alabama, both offensively and defensively," says LSU coach Charlie McClendon, a former Bryant disciple. McClendon's best hope is Hokie Gajan, who has gained 476 yards on 59 carries. Alabama counters with quarterback Stendham Shoenberger, who has 141 yards rushing, 440 passing and a hand in 13 touchdowns.

Elsewhere in the top 10, conference action abounds as second-ranked Nebraska plays Kansas State in a Big Eight game, No. 3 Southern California meets Washington in a Pac-10 contest, No. 4 Houston takes on No. 8 Texas in a key Southwest Conference tussle, fifth-ranked Ohio State clashes with Iowa in a Big 10 meeting, independent sixth-ranked Florida State tackles South Carolina, No. 7 Oklahoma goes against Kansas in Big Eight competition.

No. 9 Arkansas against Baylor in an SWC game and a Big 10 encounter involving No. 10 Michigan against Purdue.

That's a big shootout in the Southwest between undefeated Houston (8-0) and once-beaten Texas (6-1) and it pits a Longhorn team with the nation's second best total defense record against a Cougar squad possessing the 10th best rushing mark in the country.

"Houston is real explosive," says Texas linebacker Robin Sendlin. "They don't do a lot of different stuff, but what they do they do real well — the option and what we call the 'crazy option.' That's where everybody starts one way and then comes back. Their quarterback, Delrick Brown, has a good arm and is dangerous in that he scrambles as well."

Coach Tom Osborne of second-ranked Nebraska has never lost to Kansas State and the Cornhuskers are such overwhelming favorites that the action isn't on most of the betting boards. His teams have clubbed KSU by scores of 50-21, 37-10, 52-10, 51-0, 26-9 and the 48-14 mauling of last season.

Oklahoma, 8-1, attempting to keep pace with 8-0 Nebraska in the Big Eight title run, also should find it task easy against Kansas, 3-5 for the year. The Jayhawks have injury problems which may hamper their efforts to make this game as close as the 1978 contest won by Oklahoma, 17-16, when Kansas failed on a two-point conversion attempt in the waning seconds.

Other top games Saturday involving UPI's second 10 include Brigham Young vs. Long Beach State, Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia, Notre Dame vs. Tennessee, Clemson vs. North Carolina, Temple vs. Akron and Wake Forest vs. Duke.

Pac-10 bowl bids

USC-Husky tilt to settle Rose berth

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer

Washington and Southern California will face the Rose Bowl and Stanford for a possible Fiesta Bowl berth Saturday while three of the nation's better quarterbacks — Turk Schonert, Rich Campbell and Paul McDonald — continue their fight for West Coast honors.

The No. 3 ranked Trojans are 10 1/2 point favorites over the 10 Huskies. The Cardinals are picked to be the points over Oregon in games with local significance. UCLA is picked by 2 points over Arizona State and California by 7 over Washington State in other Pac-10 games.

Schonert, a fifth-year senior playing his first and last full season, is the Pac-10's top-rated quarterback with McDonald of USC second and Campbell of Cal third. Schonert has thrown a single interception in his last 19 attempts and has 16 TD passes in 112 completions. That earned him a rating of 167.7, second in the nation.

McDonald has 14 TDs among his 124 completions and a 154.1 rating while Campbell has only nine TDs from 186 completions.

All three have played under different circumstances this year. Schonert has had to share his job with a freshman and almost was chased off the team by fans and media criticism when Stanford split its first four games, while Campbell has had to pass on almost every down because Cal's Cardinals are picked to be the points over Oregon in games with local significance. UCLA is picked by 2 points over Arizona State and California by 7 over Washington State in other Pac-10 games.

All three quarterbacks are being pumped — by their respective schools for All American honors and while there are strong arguments for each, right now picking the No. 1 man on the West Coast is a tough chore for itself.

After Pac-10 record for completion percentage, for instance, is set by Cal's Paul Larson. In 1954, both Schonert and Campbell are completing their passes at a clip better than that — Schonert at 67% and Campbell at 66%. McDonald is far back at 63%.

But McDonald has had only four of his 136 passes intercepted and that comes out to only 2.2 percent. The Pac-10 record in this category is 5.1 by Cal's Steve Bartkowski in 1974. Bartkowski had only seven interceptions in 325 attempts.

While currently is averaging 170.8 yards per game rushing and with three games left to play, is in position to erase the Pac-10 mark of 170.9 set by O.J. Simpson in 1968. White's rushing is almost the equal of teammate McDonald's passing (165), which is as good an explanation as any for USC's 8-0-1 record.

In the League race, the Trojans are 4-0-1, the Huskies are 4-1-0 and the Cardinals, who have a slim chance to win the Conference, are 3-1-1. A USC victory over Washington Saturday would lead the Trojans to the Rose Bowl. Should the Huskies win, then they could wind up in Pasadena on New Year's Day by also beating Washington State next week. Stanford must win its last two games while USC must lose two (and Washington lose to WSU).

Fiesta Bowl officials have shown a strong interest in the Cardinals for their Christmas Day game in Tempe, Ariz. But Stanford must win its last two games to rate an invitation.

The NCAA race also is going down to the wire. San Jose State and Utah State are tied for the lead at 3-0-1, having played each other to a tie in the first game of the season. Utah State is idle Saturday while San Jose hosts Pacific. Fullerton State is at Fresno State in another league game while Long Beach State hosts BYU in a non-league contest.

Brewers to bid on hurlers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers will make a "money offer" to fastballer Nolan Ryan of California within a few days. The bid is personally with pitcher Dave Goltz of Minnesota, a spokesman for the baseball club said Friday.

"We're still interested in three of the people on the free agent list," said Brewer Executive Vice President and General Manager Harry Dalton.

The Brewers are interested in obtaining Ryan, Goltz and one of the four left-handed hurlers still available.

They're also going to dicker a bit with two other free agent pitchers — John Curtis of San Francisco and Don Stanhouse of Baltimore. But Dalton indicated he wasn't too hopeful with them.

Dalton made the comments at a media luncheon called to announce an increase in ticket prices for next season. He said prices for bleacher seats will be boosted 25 cents and all other tickets will go up 50 cents.

He also announced the 1980 schedule for the Brewers, who open at home April 10 against Boston.

"We've don't have to do a lot with next year's team, but we probably should do something in pitching by strengthening the bullpen," Dalton said.

"If we sign a starter then we could trade one of our other pitchers for a reliever," Dalton said.

France tests new plan

PARIS (UPI) — France's track and field competitors will leave for Moscow Olympics at the last possible moment. They'll leave by train Sunday morning as fast as possible in familiar surroundings. National technical director Jean Pocozot said Friday.

The team will leave in groups according to the timing of their arrival in the city. The track and field competitions start July 24 and finish August 1. It is the first time that such a policy has been adopted by France.

Pocozot said the decision had been taken in the light of athletes' experience at this year's Spartakiad in Moscow.

As long as possible, athletes generally preferred to train for the Olympic village itself, said Pocozot.

It is rumored that American athletes, worried about conditions and the quality of food at the Olympic village, will train at West End of the village until only a few days before their events but U.S. officials have denied the reports.

Lloyd overpowers Turnbull

FILDERSTADT, West Germany (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd overpowered Australian Wendy Turnbull 6-2, 6-1 Friday to line up a semifinal match against teenage arch rival Tracy Austin in a $100,000 Women's Grand Prix tennis tournament.

Austin, reigning U.S. Open champion, had to work hard for her 7-6, 4-6 victory over Czechoslovakia's Regina Marsikova even though the Czech was suffering from a foot injury.

Wimbledon champion Martina Navratilova had a walk over against Kerry Reid after the Australian withdrew with tennis elbow and in the semifinal will face unseeded Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia who stopped killer Nima Bohm of Sweden 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Bohm pulled off the shock of the tournament Thursday when she doped American veteran Billie Jean King.

Pistons deny Bing rumor

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons Friday denied a report that former Piston great Dave Bing, who said he was interested in the job, will be named to replace Dick Vitale, fired coach of the NBA club.

"Sure, I'm interested in the position," Bing said. "And I think they're interested in me."

He said he will meet with owner Bill Davidson on Sunday.

A Detroit television station, WJLB, said it had learned from an "impeachable source" that Bing will be offered the job vacated Thursday by Vitale and has accepted.

However, a Pistons spokesman said "if that's true, we haven't heard anything about it."

"We have no idea of who the new coach is going to be," said spokesman Mark Krefeld. "We're talking to a number of people."

Assistant Richie Adubato was to coach Detroit in its game Friday night against Philadelphia at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The Pistons won only four of 12 games under Vitale this year, who signed a three-year contract to coach the club last season.

Vitale, coach-and-athlete-director at the University of Detroit before coming to the Pistons, said he would "do everything" within his power to help his successor, and Bing would have no trouble gaining the respect of the players.

Irwin, Mahaffey hike U.S. golf lead

ATHENS (UPI) — John Mahaffey and Hale Irwin, battling in the sunshine for 5 1/2 hours, Friday took the title-holding United States, eight strokes clear of the 45-strong field after the second round of the 27th World Golf Cup.

The Americans, who complained about being held up on almost every hole, led at the halfway mark with an aggregate of 282, with Scotland moving into second place on 290, followed by Brazil (292), Taiwan (293), Japan (295) and England and Canada, both at 298.

Mahaffey, failing to match Wednesday's blistering five-under-par opening round, managed a 71 over the 6,800-yard, par 72 Glafida Club course for a one-hole aggregate of 150. This left him six strokes head of his nearest rival in the race for the individual title, which the 31-year-old Texan captured in Hawaii last year.

If Mahaffey holds off the challenge over the next 36 holes he could become only the second player to gain back-to-back victories, joining Jack Nicklaus, who doubled up in 1963 and 1964.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin improved radically on his opening round performance, and posted a two-under-par 70 to take second place in the individual standings on 144 with Brazil's Jaime Gonzales, West German Bernard Langer, Colombian Juan Pinzon and Taiwan's Lu Hsi Chuan.

Mahaffey, who dropped a stroke on an outward 37 but picked up the back nine with a 34 that included four birdies, said, "I don't know why, but I feel kind of tired today. It can't be jet-lag because I have been here since Sunday. But I'm certainly pleased I picked up on the back nine."

It was Irwin who played the anchor role Friday, when the U.S. pair defended a three-stroke overall lead over Taiwan.

The 34-year-old U.S. Open champion from Frontenac, Mo., birdied three of the first seven holes, but bogied the ninth to reach the turn in 34. There was less fluctuation on the way back for Irwin, who posted just one under-par 70 and one bogey.

Mahaffey, in contrast, had a bumpy ride on the first nine, posting a double bogey six at the second after driving into the rough, dropped another shot on the 12th, but then snatched his second outward birdie at the 16th for an outward 37. After bogeying the 10th, Mahaffey birdied three of the next four holes, dropped a shot at the 15th but then finished off with an encouraging birdie at the last.

"This course is too tough for many of the players here and they cause tremendous holdups," said Irwin. "We took three hours to play the back nine. It's much too long and at this pace it is hard to keep concentrated thought patterns."

Behind the Americans, the Taiwan challenge faded as Lu Hsi Chuan edged a 73 and his partner Chen Hsi Ming 76 for a 149 against the Americans' 141.

The best round of the day came from Italian Baldo Dassu, who carded a 66 for a 149 against the Americans' 141.

Bobby Dandridge added 26 points and Kevin Pater dished out 27 aslets for the Bulls.

Olis Birdsong's 32 points, dropped its fifth straight to fall to 5-10.

Bulls 125, Spurs 116

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Elvin Hayes scored a season-high 34 points to offset a 37-point performance by George Gervin and lead the Washington Bullets to a 125-116 victory over the San Antonio Spurs Friday night.

Bobby Dandridge added 26 points and Kevin Pater dished out 27 aslets for the Bulls.
